HAZARDOUS SUBSTANCES CERTIFICATION

The Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife (WDFW), as the recipient of funding assistance specified in RCO/SRFB Project Agreement 10-1861A, entitled Mc Loughlin Falls, does hereby give assurance that it does not know of and has no reason to know that any hazardous substance, the release or threatened release of which has resulted in or contributed to the need for remedial action, was released or disposed of, in or at the certain property or properties that are included in the above-referenced Project Agreement, with respect to approximately 10 acres of the Wilson-Hawkes property. The project sponsor further warrants that it has obtained representations and warranties concerning the environmental condition of the property from the Seller and has inspected the property to the scope and extent described in the attached Phase I Environmental Site Assessment, dated November, 2011, performed by Columbia Environmental Sciences, Inc., and a subsequent follow-up property inspection by WDFW staff on May 1, 2013, that documented the property did not contain any recognized environmental conditions.

This particular certification pertains to that certain property known as the Phase II Wilson-Hawkes Property, containing approximately 10 acres and located in Okanogan County, Washington.
